

Round 1 - Standard Submission Guidelines

There is no prescribed format. Submit as a video, slide deck, PDF, images, a Figma board, artifact - whatever best communicates your answer. Just make sure your response addresses each of the elements below, adequately and clearly. Content is what counts the most, and everything else including visual polish is good to have.

The use of any AI tool is actively encouraged. Remember, the expectation is that you will tackle a real business problem, and unlock solutions harnessing AI as a core part of your process.

Your submission must cover all six elements:

1. The case you chose - which of the cases you are answering, and why.
2. Your recommendation, and why - a clear, specific call and the reasoning behind it.
3. The evidence - back your argument with relevant data and analysis. Cite every external figure. Stating a figure you cannot source - or that the AI produced without a source - counts against you.
4. What you considered and rejected - what you seriously weighed and decided against, and why. Show the thinking, not just the winner.
5. The Round 2 build idea - what asset you would build in Round 2, how it would strengthen your recommendation, and what data it would need.
6. Working the AI - a few distinct moments where you directed the AI. For each: the AI's first answer, what you did with it (pushed it further, corrected it, or stress-tested it), and what changed as a result.
